PROMISING INVESTIGATOR CONTEST (ePIC)

The activity of promoting young geotechnical engineers at the international professional societies events has been supported by IACMAG and YMPG, the Young Member Presidential Group of the ISSMGE.

The Promising Young Investigator Contest (ePIC) of IACMAG 2020 is a synergy event with the main goal of supporting promising young geotechnical engineers/academics to deliver keynote lectures at international conferences.

The selected participants (age 35 or under at the date of IACMAG 2020) will have the opportunity to present their work as the recipient of the Promising Investigator Award of IACMAG which will be the equivalent of Bright Spark Lecture award of ISSMGE.

The award will go to the young geotechnical engineer that exemplifies mature research or practice in any topic of the conference.

A total of three awards will be assigned:

1. ePIC Winner, will be waived of the registration fee and receive an invitation to the Social Dinner. The paper will be presented during a plenary session after the Award ceremony.
2. ePIC Nominations, will be waived 50% of the registration fee, will receive an invitation to the Social Dinner and their paper will be presented during parallel sessions.

Find out more details on how to join the contest on the conference website "awards" section.
